

CUTLINE

The audience changes everything.

Audience-directed live cinema

Speculative multiverse artwork

A theater becomes the director

One shared film.
A choice on every phone.

Open the last door

Follow the flickering light

Pull the emergency brake

“The last train” concept still, AI-generated

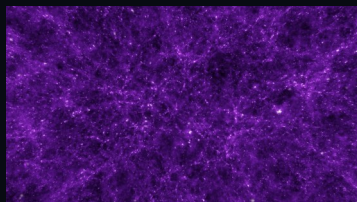

One canvas, from cosmos to cinema

Click a destination. The camera travels.

Universe

Infrared observation

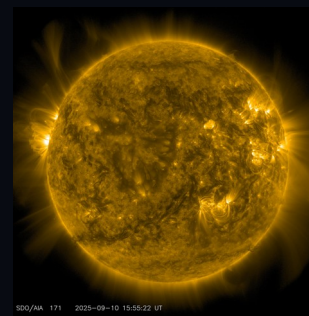

Cosmic web

Scientific simulation

Milky Way

Artist concept

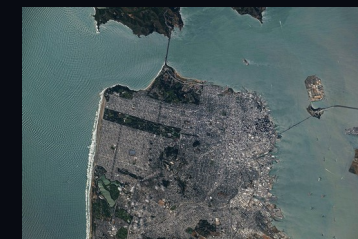

Solar system

Sun, EUV observation

Earth

Apollo 17 photograph

San Francisco

ISS photograph

NASA texture on the Earth sphere

Original San Francisco aerial plane

Source references shown here. The app uses one Three.js canvas with cinematic, compressed scales. Orbis begins in the fictional film.

One decision, one shared result

01

Open

Host opens the scene's poll.

02

Vote

Each viewer can replace their ballot.

03

Close

The database freezes the final tally.

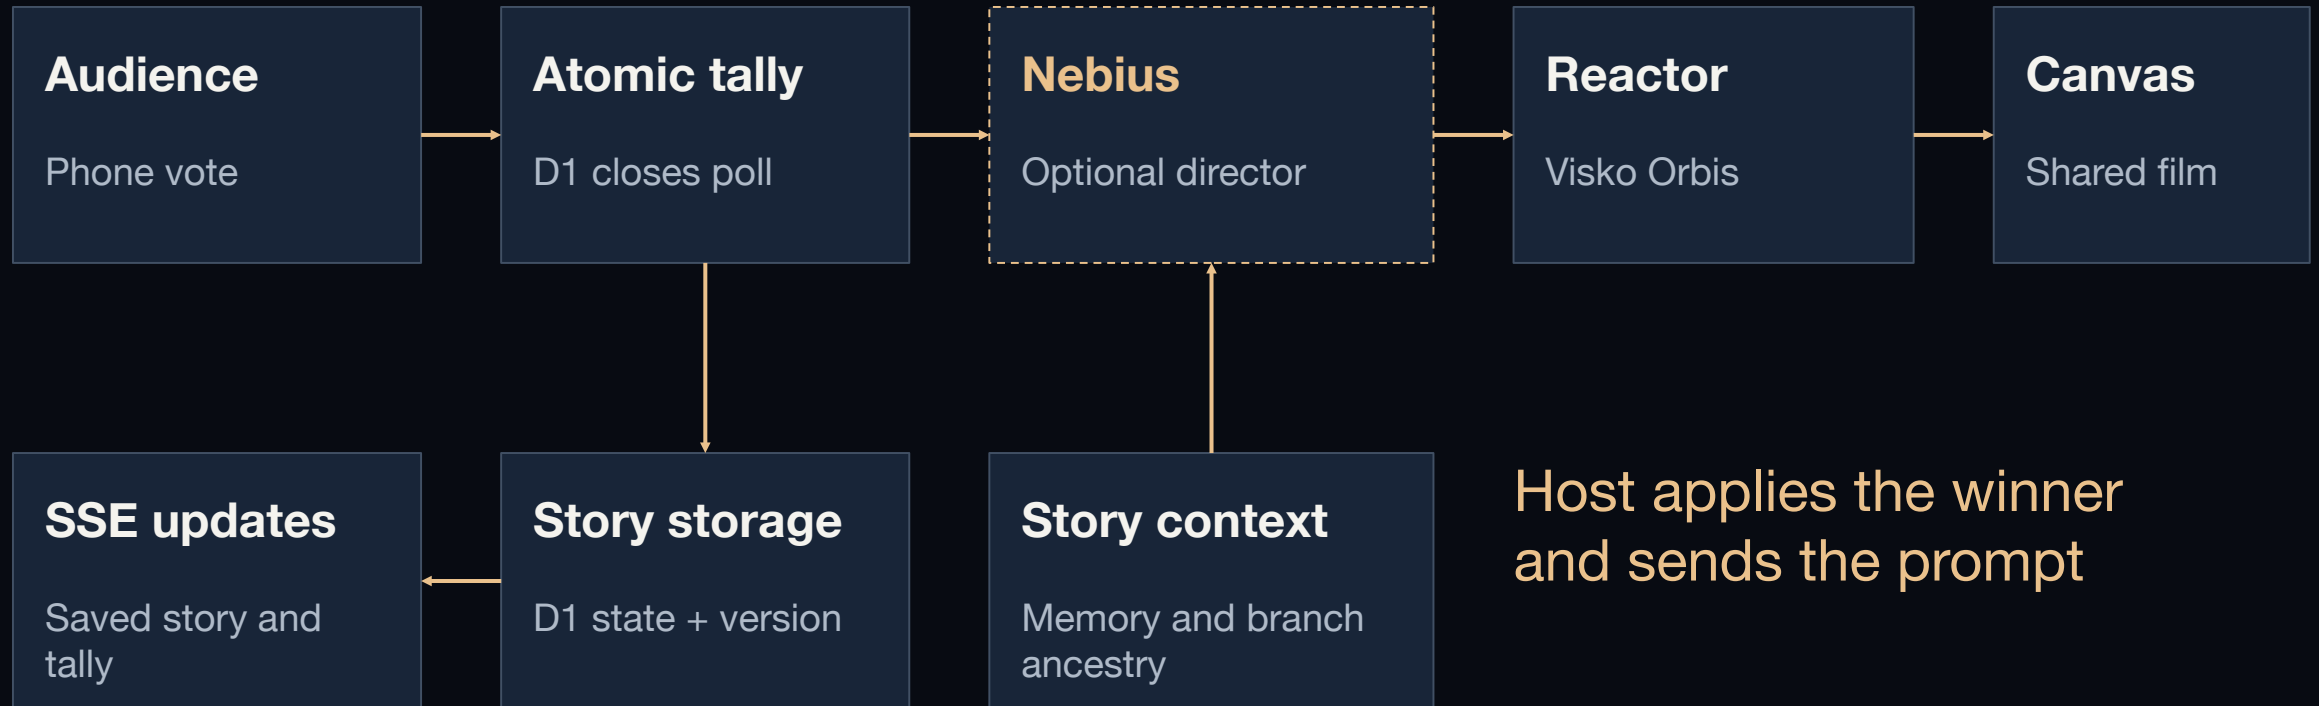

04

Apply

Host applies the winner once.

Ties follow the visible choice order. A poll with no votes has no winner.

The audience-to-canvas architecture

Rehearsal can create a beat without Nebius.

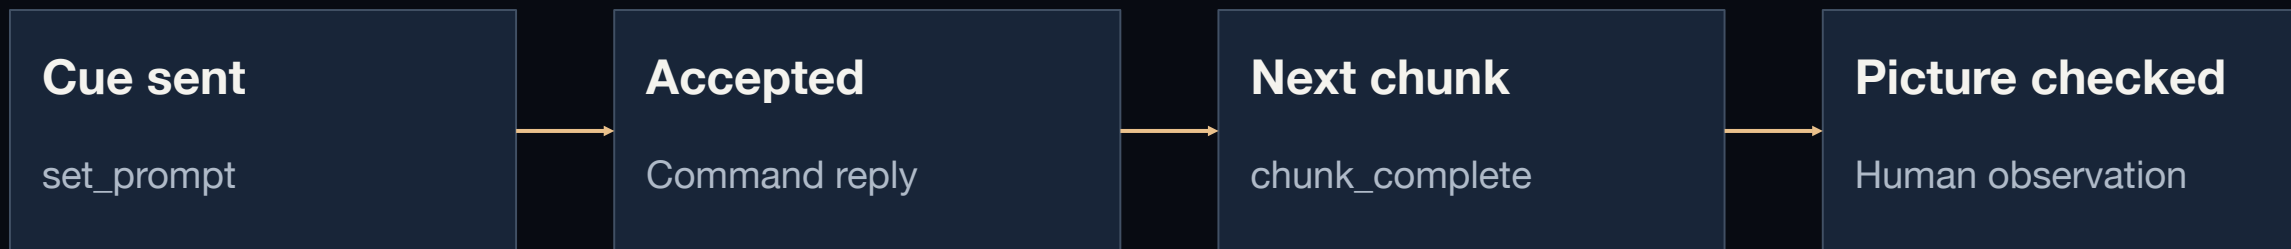

The live session exposes its progress

2560 × 1440

Observed delivery resolution

18 fps

Stable session observed

Latency varies. Command acceptance does not establish visual compliance.

Creative control preserves the scene

Continuity

Story memory anchors the character, clothing, setting, and active branch.

Visible change

A direction describes one action that the picture can show.

Branching

Earlier scenes remain available.
Abandoned futures leave the context.

Live cues

Camera and lighting controls reshape the ongoing shot.

The application behavior has test evidence

210

assertions

12 / 12

integration groups passed

Area	Verified behavior
Voting	Replacement, frozen tally, ties, apply once
Consistency	Concurrent mutations and branch ancestry
Access + recovery	Owner isolation, exports, SSE reconnect

The complete live loop was verified

Stage	Combined local run	Evidence
Audience	Open the last door won	Winner saved and applied
Nebius	Scene + three new choices	Memory and source retained
Orbis Stable	Prompt accepted at 93 ms	Next chunk at 1,927 ms
Movie	18 fps; image confirmed	Doorway visually inspected

One observed run. Timings vary with each session.

CUTLINE

The audience changes everything.

One room chooses the next scene.

Live demonstration

Speculative multiverse artwork